

Bungalow style homes fit for King

Orchard Park, Twigworth near Gloucester officially announces the launch of its next phase of bungalow-style homes with King's Acre.

Building on the recent success of Orchard Park's popular Ashmeads Crescent development of single-storey homes, the new phase at King's Acre offers customers a new opportunity to move to the park with plots now available to reserve off plan.

There are 23 new bungalow-style park homes all with a landscaped garden, an adjacent garage and block-paved driveway.

A fully residential park exclusively for those aged over 50, benefiting from a full 12-month residential site licence.

Plots can be purchased off-plan today and customers are able to take advantage of free accommodation while they await delivery of their new home.

A range of luxury stock homes will be arriving to the park soon, or customers can select a plot for a home tailored to their own specifications.

Plots are available for homes up to 48ft. Orchard Park is run by Park Home Life – a family business with over 50 years heritage operating residential parks.

While Ashmeads Crescent was within a gated road, close to the entrance of Orchard Park, King's Acre is sited at the far boundaries, facing away towards Hatherley Brook. The new development has distinct rural surroundings, providing a feeling of peace and tranquillity, yet is close to an array of shops, facilities and transport links.

Kings Acre is being planned and redeveloped from the ground-up to provide a luxury setting for 23 bungalow-style homes up to 48ft which can be tailored to the customers' own specification. Plans are underway for an initial selection of luxury stock homes with high-spec kitchens and living areas flooded with natural light, but customers are also able to select a plot for a home tailored to their own specifications.

"The quiet surroundings of King's Acre is a hugely attractive feature for those looking forward to retirement and seeking a hassle-free lifestyle," said Sales Manager, Helen Ford. "We are really excited about the plots available within the new phase, so I would encourage anyone planning to downsize to come along to our Sales Office, where we can show visitors what will be on offer. With no stamp duty to pay on these homes, there is an even bigger incentive for those considering moving to the park".
