

Opt for hassle-free life

PARK Home Life will hold an open house event at its Blunsdon Abbey Park development on Sunday.

The company caters exclusively for people aged over 50, and says there are many reasons why older homeowners decide to move house.

These include wishing to downsize, releasing equity to fund retirement, preferring the lower running costs of a smaller home and addressing mobility issues.

The latest phase of homes is 'Abbey View, a new development of eight single-storey homes.

More than half of the plots have so far been reserved.

Sales manager Helen Ford said: "The quiet surroundings of Blunsdon Abbey Park are a hugely attractive feature for those looking forward to retirement and seeking a hassle-free lifestyle.

"There has been an identifiable buzz and excitement about Abbey View, so I would encourage anyone planning to downsize to come along to our open house event on Sunday, August 21 from 10am, when visitors can explore our homes.

"With no stamp duty to pay on these homes, there is an even bigger incentive for those over 50 considering moving to the park."

Currently available for reservation is 6 Abbey View, pictured, which is priced at £235,000.

It is available for immediate occupation and has a sunny private garden, an adjacent garage with power and lighting and a block paved driveway.
